The Sleeping and The Dead by Ann Cleeves

North Devon is enjoying a rare hot summer when Detective Peter Porteous is called to Cranford Water, where the body of a teenager has been discovered. After trawling through the missing persons files, he comes to the conclusion that the corpse is Michael Grey, an enigmatic and secretive young man who was reported missing by his foster parents in 1972.

The news that a body has been found leaves prison officer Hannah Morton in shock. Michael had been her boyfriend, and she had been with him the night he disappeared. And now the discovery is bringing back dreaded and long-buried memories from her past.

Don't Be Too Polite, Girls by Wendy McCarthy

Wendy McCarthy has made her mark on Australia in many extraordinary ways. For more than 50 years, she has been on the leading edge of feminism and corporate and public life in this country, and her trailblazing advocacy and leadership have made her a widely respected and revered figure. Wendy is a woman who shaped her times as much as she was shaped by them, and now, at 80 years of age, she shares her remarkable life and achievements, and the lessons she learned – and taught us all.

This inspiring and enlightening memoir is filled with cautionary tales and insider stories about being female in Australia – as well as a few helpful survival tips. Above all, it encourages the reader to find her own voice and listen to it.

Don't miss Wendy at our up-coming Wheeler Centre event.

Don't Be Too Polite, Girls >

The Crooked Shore by Martin Edwards

DCI Hannah Scarlett is an acknowledged expert in solving cold cases, but she is struggling under the weight of bureaucracy when Ramona Smith's disappearance from Bowness more than twenty years ago crosses her desk.

The prime suspect was charged but found not guilty. Now the case has come back into the public eye as the result of a shocking tragedy on the Crooked Shore, the found of dark legends south of the Lake District. A ruthless killer, who has already got away with one murder, plans further appalling crimes. DCI Scarlett finds herself racing against the clock as she strives to solve the mysteries and save innocent lives.

Mothers and Daughters by Erica James

Since the sudden death of her husband, Naomi has steadily rebuilt the life they shared in the village of Tilsham by the sea.

Her eldest daughter, Martha, is sensible and determined – just like her father was – and very much in control of where her life is going. If she could just get pregnant with her husband life would be perfect.

Willow, the youngest, was always more sunny and easy-going, yet drifted through life, much to her father's frustration. But now, with charming new boyfriend, Rick, she has a very good reason to settle down.

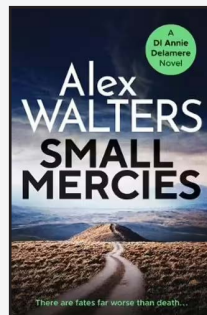

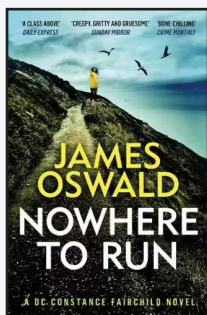

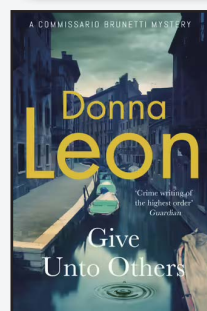

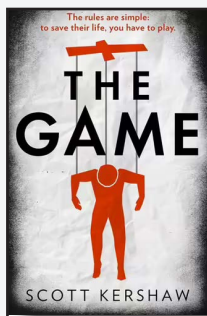

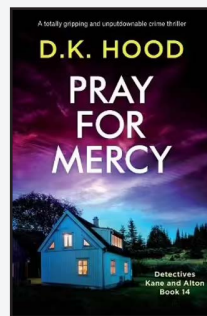

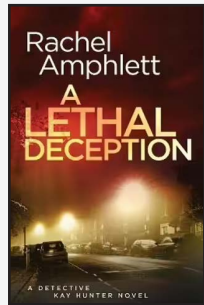

The three women are as close as can be. But there are things Naomi has kept from her daughters. Like the arrival of Ellis, a long-lost friend from way back, now bringing the fun and spark back into her life.

BALLARAT ANZACS

Display Talks & Research

Library & Heritage Reading Room

Many thanks to Garry Snowden, President of the Arch of Victory & Avenue of Honour Committee, thanks also to Yvon Davis, Neil Leckie and Phil Roberts for the generous amount of time dedicated to staging this exhibition, talks and research assistance they offered to more than 250 people who attended activities in April.

Thank you also to Victoria Rushton from Integra, who provided the wonderful story boards. Thank you also the Mayor and Garry Snowden for making available The Grieving Mother and the Brother's in Arms maquettes respectively, as well as other meaningful items that Garry was able to provide. Thanks to the Ballarat Ranger Military Museum and Ballarat RSL for memorabilia display items. It is also noted that some of our own members loaned display items, we thank you. We are also grateful to Marian Blythman's team of Collections Volunteers, Dani, Judy and Mary who contributed with a beautiful display of ANZAC related books from our own Heritage Collection. The Ballarat Times supported us with news items each week of the Exhibition relating to each of the four talks. This gave the exhibition and activities great community reach. We are hoping to expose more stories next year and hope you enjoyed the series.

The Max Harris Collection

Butler, Ballarat

Brendan Allan from Butler Chartered Accountants & Butler Private (Financial Planners), have purchased the use of one of Max's images (MH1460) from Our Collection and it graces the entrance of their offices in Doveton Street North. The image has been printed on vinyl and creates a spectacular entrance. Brendan has researched the image, finding an article via Trove (Ballarat Courier, 11 September 1915) identifying the date the of the photo as 10 September 1915, we have provided a clearer representation of the article by sending him a photo of the printed page of the news item from Our Collection of heritage newspapers. This information will be placed as a News Item on our website.

This image is relevant to Butler as it was taken directly opposite their offices and is a point of conversation with clients and visitors. Brendan is happy for you to drop into 18 Doveton Street North to see how stunning it looks.

Auntie Chrissie's

Kerry Clarke has recently created a lovely bed & breakfast here in Ballarat (Auntie Chrissie's - 1904 Cottage) which has been enhanced by adding touches of Ballarat heritage in the form of Max Harris Collection images.

This is a new venture for Kerry and we wish her well.

Annie Thomas | Ballarat Punch

Annie was a regular visitor to the BMI a couple of months ago, she was doing research whilst utilising Our Collection of Ballarat Punch. Annie has forwarded the pictured article from October 12, 1867 in the Ballarat Punch. she said, "It describes a trip to the Ballarat Mechanics' Institute and while it is quite tongue in cheek in parts as you would expect from Mr Punch, it has some nice descriptions of the building, reading material and the general feel for the time."

This article will be placed as a News Item on our website. It is truly worth the read.
